

DE NIEU NEDERLANSE MARCURIUS

NAME AND SUBJECT INDEX

1985 – 2018

Introduction

De Nieuw Nederlanse Marcurius was the newsletter of the New Netherland Project, established in 1974 to translate the seventeenth century colonial Dutch records, and of, since 2005, its supporting organization, the New Netherland Institute. The newsletter was published quarterly (with some exceptions) beginning in February 1985. It contains news of the Project, details of associated activities, and articles pertaining to Dutch history and culture in both Europe and the New World. The newsletter has been discontinued, and the last issue of the Marcurius was in December 2018. In May 2019 The New Netherland Institute began publishing an online version of the newsletter, known as the E-Marcurius. This current index does not contain any references to the contents of this new publication.

The purpose of this index is to provide a means of locating references to subjects, people, events, and other significant citations in the printed editions of the publication. Some headings in the index refer to subjects and names in the section of the newsletter called “Totidem Verbis,” which, beginning in May 1988, appears at the end of most editions of the publication. This section contains longer essays on a variety of topics, including documents, translations, matters of linguistic interest, accounts of Dutch exploration and circumnavigation, biographies, a historical calendar, and numerous other matters of interest and relevance to those who follow and support New Netherland studies.

The index does not, in general, refer the user to the numerous ephemeral items appearing in every edition of the newsletter. These include such matters as upcoming or current exhibitions, research enquiries, publications, lectures, book reviews, language courses, minutes of meetings, prizes awarded, symposia, conference notifications and reports, and other events and matters of a brief or transitory nature. However, when such references are deemed to be of sufficient significance, and thus of potential interest, the term has been indexed. The terms are more specific than general; e.g. the name of the explorer rather than “exploration.”

Several “See” references are included in order to gather materials under the one appropriate heading when there is more than one possible or likely way of looking up a subject. “See Also” references refer the user to related headings.

The edition of the Marcurius containing the indexed item is indicated by the year and month of its publication rather than by its volume and number. This is simpler, and will additionally enable the user to be aware of the age of the material. Except when “part” articles are noted, multiple references for the same subject are listed with the most recent date appearing first in the list of publication dates.

Titles of noteworthy articles are included in the index as they appear in the newsletter, filed under the first significant word of the title. Subject references to these articles are also provided. Some subjects and people are indexed more than once, and occasionally many times. Brief qualifying statements are included to explain and differentiate the references.

The 1985-2018 printed editions of the Marcurius are available online at the New Netherland Institute’s website: <https://www.newnetherlandinstitute.org/about-nni/newsletters/>. The E-Marcurius can be found at: <https://crm.newnetherlandinstitute.org/e-news/>.
